INTRODUCTION

Alsace lies in North East France, close to the German and Swiss borders. It has such a wide variety of attractions that everyone is guaranteed a good quality of life.

Alsace is ideally situated in the heart of Europe. It is a small region with a perfect balance between urban areas (Strasbourg, Mulhouse, Colmar...) and a large variety of landscapes: forests, valleys, plains, hills...

Forged by its eventful history, the region is characterized by a strong identity and a rich cultural heritage.

Alsace is a land of art and culture that reflects its open mind and the creativity of its artists and artisans. Over 250 museums and collections present this heritage, ranging from prehistory to contemporary art.

In Strasbourg, the capital city, the context is decidedly international with numerous European Institutions: European Parliament, Council of Europe, European Court of Human Rights, ... This atmosphere is reinforced by the large number of students, of which one in five is foreign.

Many international festivals, shows, cultural events and exhibitions take place throughout Alsace all year round, including the famous Christmas markets.

This document aims to provide useful addresses and advice to facilitate your arrival and setting up in our region.

/// LOOKING AFTER YOUNG CHILDREN

Many types of childcare can meet your needs, depending on the age of your child or children.

For very young children under the age of three, collective childcare is available in structures such as nurseries, micro-day nurseries, day nurseries, multi activity structures or kindergarten.

You can also opt for the services of a childminder who has the appropriate authorization delivered by the President of the Conseil Départemental. A childminder can take care of your child until he/she begins secondary education (“college”) at the age of 11.

You can also choose to have your child (children) looked after at home.

Detailed information, depending on your personal situation, is available on the website: www.mon-enfant.fr

// SCHOOL SYSTEM

In France, education is compulsory for all 6 to 16 year olds, French and foreign. However, in practice, teaching begins for 3-year olds in „Ecoles maternelles“.

Parents can choose to send their child or children to a public or private school or educational institution. If the child attends a public school, the precise establishment depends on the place of residence. For a place in a private school, the place of residence is of no consequence but an application is to be filled directly with the school.
